

I am aware you are looking into the Super Bowl Half-time show to see if any indecency laws were broken. I think it is common sense that the display we saw this year was way over the boundary of decent and respectful. My 8 and 9 year old children heard those lyrics and saw the classless act by Janet Jackson and Justin Timberlake. All the performers were horrible, disrespectful and, in my opinion, unpatriotic. It's time we made TV more wholesome. The performances at the beginning of the show fit that description. Josh Brogin and Beyonce Knowles were dressed respectful and acted respectful. They deserve congratulations. The rest deserve a bit, fat fine. I hope you are not just going to accept their apologies after the fact. That would just insure that it would happen again. Thanks for taking the time to read my opinion.
